

LOTF: Jack as Animal Literary Analysis Paragraph

Using the quotes and explanations from the chart that you filled out, write a body paragraph following TIQA.

Body Paragraph – (Follow TIQA): You should have 1 body paragraph. You must use the topic sentences that we come up with in class.

- T Make sure the body paragraph has a topic sentence. It is in the topic sentence that you should argue that Golding wants the reader to see Jack as an animal.
- I Make sure that you introduce your quote
  - Make sure that you provide some context. Who says the words? Where are they said? When are they said? Are they in response to someone? Are they describing something? Pretend that your reader hasn't read the book in a very long time.
- Q Provide a quote that supports your topic sentence.
- A Provide an analysis of how this quote supports your argument or your topic sentence. Explain how the quote proves what you are saying in the topic sentence.
- T Transition into a second example.
- I Make sure that you introduce your second quote
  - Make sure that you provide some context. Who says the words? Where are they said? When are they said? Are they in response to someone? Are they describing something? Pretend that your reader hasn't read the book in a very long time.
- Q Provide a second quote that supports your topic sentence.
- A Provide an analysis of how this quote supports your argument or your topic sentence. Explain how the quote proves what you are saying in the topic sentence.

Writing Tips:

- Do not use second person (You, Your.)
- Make sure you use page numbers. Do not use the word page or the letters pg. or the letter p. Remember that page numbers should look like this:
  - When Jack is in the forest hunting, the narrator describes him as being “down like a sprinter” (48).
- Have a title. Usually a title is a shortened version of your thesis, but in this case, it should be a shortened version of your topic sentence.
- Follow proper MLA format for heading and paper. 1 inch margins. Double space throughout whole paper. Do not bold anything on the paper. And do not change font.
- Use your CNTRL-F Proofreading sheet to proofread paper.
